

Moisture analyzers are connected in a row from the place of discharging, like a pipeline or a chimney, over a measure gas pipe onto the control system by a sample probe.

